Three sought in second jail break in seven days

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three prisoners are still at-large in the escape of seven inmates from the Hancock County Jail on Friday night.

The inmates escaped by filing through two one inch steel bars on the window of their cell, Hancock County Criminal Investigator Delbert Seay said.

"There were 13 prisoners in the cell at the time of the break, one was captured by Jailer Tommy Powell on the roof of the one-story section of the jail," Seay reported.

The break occurred at approximately 7:30 p.m., with two of the inmates turning themselves into officer at the jail later in the night, Seay stated.

The fourth inmate was captured by a Hancock County deputy sheriff about 4 p.m. Saturday on I-10 near Highway 603.

There is a possibility the three still at-large may have stolen a vehicle several blocks from the jail on Easterbrook Street.

There were also three prisoners who escaped last Friday night from the same cell by sawing through the steel bars.

The third from last week's escape was captured Friday in Georgetown, Texas, according to Seay.

Bay St. Louis Detective Chuck James said on Saturday, a Pontiac Gran Prix was reported stolen from Easterbrook Street in Bay St. Louis at around 8 p.m., a few minutes after the jail break.

The inmate captured during the escape was identified by Seay as Michael Schwall, 35, who was being held for the State Department of Corrections, after being sentenced to 10 years on burglary charges in Circuit Court.

Kevin Ladner, 22, returned to the jail at about 11:30 p.m., and Joseph Randell Redmond, 18, turned himself in at around midnight Friday.

Seay listed the following as still being at-large:

—Richard Mayne, 20, white male, 5 foot 10 inches, 180 pounds, blond hair and blue eyes. He was awaiting to be transported to Parchman's Regimented Discipline program in connection with grand larceny charges.

—Daniel Wheat, 18, white male, 5 foot, 11 inches, 145 pounds, blond hair, and blue eyes. He was being held in lieu of bond in connection with burglary charges.

—Danny Ray Powell, 18, white male, 5 foot, 6 inches, and 132 pounds. He too was awaiting to be transported to Parchman's Regimented Discipline program.

James Scott, 27, was the fourth of the seven to be returned to the jail.

Waveland primary to include 14 candidates

By DENA BISNETTE

A total of 14 candidates have qualified for six races included in Waveland's Nov. 4 Democratic Primary election.

According to City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue, the candidates were approved late Friday by the Waveland Democratic Executive Committee. The qualifying deadline was 4 p.m. Friday.

Incumbent Mayor John Longo Jr. is unopposed, as are Ward Two Alderman Bob Hubbard and Ward Three Alderman Louis Smolensky.

In Ward One, incumbent Barbara

Rappold faces two challengers, Rhonda A. Patton and Woody Pearce.

Ward Four Alderman Herman Yarborough is running for reelection against Shirley Cox.

The sixth race is for Democratic Executive Committee and voters will be allowed to vote for five of the six candidates.

The candidates include Milton G. Bernard, Joseph (Jay) D. Fleuriot Jr., Clarence Harris, Ruth Miller, Delores Richmond and Beverly Zimmerman.

Referendum on 911 dropped, not authorized for ballot

By DENA BISNETTE

A referendum for a countywide version of enhanced 911 service will not be included on the November election ballot, but remains a possibility for 1987.

According to Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk, a referendum on the matter has not been authorized through local and private legislation and therefore may not be on November's election ballot.

Gottschalk said he contacted the Mississippi Secretary of State's office after the board of supervisors agreed Monday to approve a resolution asking for the referendum.

Research by personnel in the office's election division revealed no authorization for the 911 referendum, which requires a local and private bill specifically designated for Hancock County, Gottschalk explained.

In accordance with a request by Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar, the resolution was contingent on the board's authority to authorize referendums.

Kellar questioned the board's authority to pass a resolution for a referendum Monday after stating that he was unable to remember a request for or passage of any local and private bill for that purpose.

There was also no record of a request for a 911 referendum in the board minutes.

The resolution was requested by Bay-Waveland-Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin.

Boudin explained that Waveland is presently the only part of Hancock County where 911 service is available, but new technology has provided South Central Bell with both the capability to provide 911 service to all of the telephone exchanges in the county as well as the capability to provide enhanced 911 service at a cost of about 25 cents per month per telephone customer.

Boudin said that before the improved technology became available, only telephone numbers with a 467 prefix could obtain the service.

With the enhanced version of the service, law enforcement and other emergency agencies can

Wastewater district awaiting $3.5 million federal grant

By DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District expects to receive $3.5 million in grant funds from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The district board heard a report on a grant application for the third segment of a five-part project Wednesday from Bryan Engle, a representative of State Bureau of Pollution Control in Jackson.

State Bureau of Pollution Control serves as local administrator for funding provided to Mississippi wastewater districts under the jurisdiction of the agency's Atlanta, Ga., office.

The funds will be used for improvement of the district's sewerage treatment plant at Waveland, District Administrator Ethel Schott said. Additional treatment facilities will enable the plant to handle the combined sewage from both Bay St. Louis and Waveland when the cities' collection systems are eventually linked in a later segment of the project.

Engle said the grant offer is dated Sept. 30 and is being mailed by the agency's Atlanta office, but Schott said Friday it had not yet arrived.

The district board has authorized its chairman, John Longo Jr., to sign forms indicating acceptance of the grant as soon as they are received in the mail.

In addition to the $3.5 million, the district is expecting a second installment on the grant that will total about $600,000, Schott said.

Engle told the board that processing of the application for the $800,000 is expected to be completed in December.

That funding is also earmarked for plant improvements, Schott said. The project includes improvements at the sewage lagoon in Bay St. Louis, currently nearing completion; construction of pipeline in preparation for linkage of the Bay St. Louis and Waveland collection systems; the treatment plant improvements; linkage of the two systems; and construction of sewerage collection systems in four sections of the county.

The segments of the project are being financed with combinations of federal funding, interest-free state loans and local funding.

Services now available for visually impaired visitors

Tape recorded tours of historic Fort Pickens and the marine and history museums located in the Fort Pickens area of Gulf Islands National Seashore are now available to visitors who have visual disabilities. Superintendent Jerry Eubanks reported.

The recordings were made in conjunction with the Florida Regional Library for the Blind located in Daytona Beach, Florida. This library is a part of a system of regional libraries the Library of Congress administers to provide materials in large print, braille, or on disc or cassette tapes to people with visual disabilities.

Persons wishing to use the cassette tapes and recorders should contact Park Rangers at the Fort Pickens Visitor Information Station located adjacent to historic Fort Pickens. The information station is open 9:30 a.m. - 5 p.m., April thru October and 9:30 a.m. - 4 p.m., the remainder of the year. Park Rangers also lead a guided tour of Fort Pickens daily at 1 p.m.

"We are pleased to be able to offer this service to our visually disabled visitors in a continuing effort to increase the accessibility of programs and facilities at Gulf Islands National Seashore," said Eubanks.

In addition to this program, the following Seashore facilities are accessible to the physically disabled: The Santa Rosa Day Use Facility, located east of Pensacola Beach, the Langdon Beach Pavilion located in the Fort Pickens area and the William M. Colner Visitor Center located on Davis Bayou in Ocean Springs, Mississippi.

For information on these and other services concerning disabled visitors please call (904) 932-0620.

Radio Reading Service seeks blind listeners

The Radio Reading Service of Mississippi, the statewide broadcasting service for the blind and print-handicapped, is looking for potential listeners.

RRSM, a service of Public Radio in Mississippi, provides current information on the radio for persons who are unable to read the printed word, either because of visual handicaps or because of other physical handicaps, such as the inability to turn pages.

Anyone who knows of a person who might qualify for an RRSM receiver is urged to contact RRSM at the Universities Center, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Room 152, Jackson, MS 39211, 982-6301.

The service features on-the-air readings of newspapers, books and magazines from 5 a.m. to midnight on weekdays and from 6 a.m. to midnight on weekends.

RRSM listeners need a special "fixed-crystal" receiver to hear the broadcasts. This receiver is a small table-model radio that is permanently tuned to the RRSM channel.

Listening to the service costs the listener nothing of course, but the receivers cost $65 each. Those who are able to pay are asked to do so, and contributions are solicited for those who cannot.

Public Radio in Mississippi, which operates RRSM, is a division of Mississippi Educational Television.

Gospel music benefit set for Hancock Food Pantry

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A benefit concert by gospel singers from several area churches is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 11 at the Hancock County Fairgrounds. Admission for the 7 p.m. event is one can of food per person. All food collected will benefit the Hancock County Food Pantry which distributes food to needy persons throughout the county.

Organized in May, the Food Pantry has already provided food for nearly 300 persons in Hancock County.

Executive Director Leontine De Rocha said there really is a need for the Food Pantry in Hancock County and donations and benefits such as the gospel singing are the only sources of supplies for the pantry.

Retired public employees meeting set for Oct. 16

A district meeting of retirees of Public Employees' Retirement System will be conducted Thursday, Oct. 16, beginning at 1:30 o'clock at the Westside Community Center. The purpose of the meeting is to explain and promote the passage of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 518 which will be on the ballot as a Constitutional Amendment in the General Election on Tuesday, Nov. 4, 1988.

This amendment which was adopted by a unanimous vote of the 1985 Mississippi legislature will, if passed, prevent the diversion or use of the trust funds of the State Retirement System for any purpose other than paying retiree benefits, the administration of the Retirement System, and assuring the actuarial stability of the funds and assets.

Dr. J. J. Hayden, former president of Gulf Coast Junior College, a member of the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Retired Public Employees' Association, and George Bullard of Gulfport, educator, will be present to answer any question and to help with local planning and suggestions for community organization geared to get the vote out and gain a victory at the polls on Nov. 4. A representative from the Public Employees' Retirement System will be present to answer any question concerning the System and retiree benefits thereunder.

This amendment has been endorsed by the Retired Teachers Association, American Association of Retired Persons, State Employees' Association, Mississippi Municipal Association, State Association of Supervisors, Chancery and Circuit Clerks, Tax Assessors and Collectors, Highway Safety Patrol Retirees, Firefighters, Wildlife, Farm Extension Service, and other groups.

Walter Blivins, State President of MRPEA, urges all retirees, affected and interested persons within the area of this district meeting to attend. He stated: "The passage of SCR 518 is the most effective way to protect retiree trust funds and assure the continued strength and protection of the retirement system assets."

VFW building dedication set

The Theodore S. Price Veteran of Foreign War Post 3253 in Bay St. Louis will conduct a dedication ceremonies 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12 for the Veteran's Memorial building.

The newly acquired building and property is located behind the Third Street post home.

VFW's State Commander Al Cumming's will be present for the ceremony with several other state and district officers.

The newly remodeled 6,000 square foot hall, complete with kitchen, air conditioning and heating, will serve not only the VFW but will provide a meeting place for other organizations and special occasions.

Longhorn Bulls

Two purebred longhorn bulls recently were donated to the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry-National Agricultural Aviation Museum in Jackson.

The bulls were given to the museum by Carl W. Hardin of Oxford. They may be seen at the museum on Lakeland Drive at Interstate 55 North, Exit 13.

North Carolina Thanks

An excerpt from a press release mailed out by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture: RALEIGH—No one needed to tell farmers in Piedmont and western North Carolina how dry their fields were.

Among the hardest hit were those with dairy, beef or horse operations. While it was possible for some to turn under row crops or cut corn for silage or at least harvest a little wheat, those with horses and cattle were left with animals starving in dying pastures.

Before long, Departments of Agriculture in responding states, along with countless farmer, church and civic groups had banded together to collect as much hay as possible and facilitate shipment to the Southeast.

Perhaps Jim Graham, N.C. commissioner of agriculture, recognizing that if he tried to thank everyone individually he would leave someone out, summed it up best by saying, "Simply thank you, one and all."

Bayer Be Aware

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce encourages buyers to purchase all foliage plants from established, reputable dealers.

"Many so-called bargain plants bought from temporary dealers prove to be disappointing since they have not been acclimated to Mississippi's climate," said David Tatum of the department's Division of Plant Industry at Mississippi State University.

He also says it is impossible to determine by inspection if a foliage plant has been acclimated. Those who buy from a reputable dealer usually can be assured of healthy products and good purchases.

Museum Schedule

Effective Nov. 1, the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry-National Agricultural Aviation Museum in Jackson will be closed Mondays. This will allow the museum to save money and clean the grounds as needed.

The museum also will be open from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Memorial Day through Labor Day during the 1987 season.

Regular hours for the museum are Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. The museum is on Lakeland Drive at Interstate 55 North, Exit 13. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children.

Quotables by CUEVAS

There will be a blood drawing for the Hancock County Blood Bank on Wednesday at the Bay St. Louis American Legion home on Green Meadow Road.

Note there is a time change in the drawing, as it will be from 3 to 8 p.m.

John Rutherford, chairman, said a goal of 100 units has been set for this drawing.

Persons age 17 and older who are physically able are urged to participate.

One never knows when they will need blood themselves or for a member of their family.

Some may want to donate a unit of blood for Mrs. Margie Glover, who is scheduled to use between 150-200 units due to illness.

We hope the goal of 100 units will be doubled for this drawing.

The week of Oct. 5-11 has been designated as National Fire Prevention Week by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

As many of you know, as of Oct. 1, Jay Marsh has been named Hancock County's Fire Marshall.

Marsh has made arrangements with the many fire departments throughout the county to perform fire safety checks of residences during this week.

Any resident wanting a free fire safety inspection may call 467-9226 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

This is a good service for our residents, and it is hoped many will take advantage of it by having their residence given a fire safety check.

The Mississippi Railway Museum's train located at Port Bienville is scheduled to run on Saturday and Sunday afternoons throughout the month of October.

We know there are many residents who have already taken a ride on the steam engine, while many others have not had an opportunity as yet.

The steam engine brings back many memories of our childhood days of riding the trains between Waveland and New Orleans.

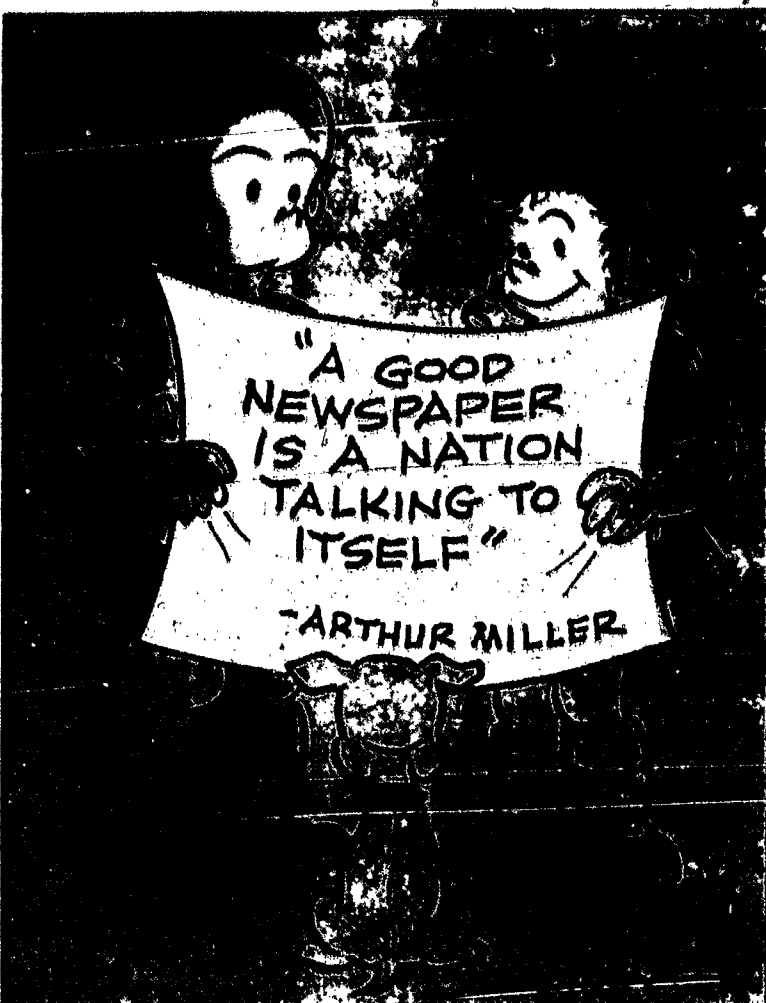

I can remember the ride every Mardi Gras to New Orleans with my mother and three brothers to see the big parades.

Port Bienville is located off US-90 on the Ansley Road. Persons living in the Bay-Waveland area can travel West on US-90, taking an exit a few miles before Pearlinton to Hancock County's Industrial Park.

The train is operated by volunteers, and we understand they will also be working on weekends throughout the winter restoring more rail cars for next season.

One thing we have noted is the excitement on the face of youngsters who are making their first ride on a train. It also is educational, as rail travel was the most popular way to travel in the United States for many years.

Our Freedom Safeguards Your Freedom

A Free Press Serves A Free People

National Newspaper Week provides us all an opportunity to recognize and to acclaim the extraordinary vision of our nation's founders in establishing freedom of the press—in conjunction with freedom of speech—as a fundamental requisite for the protection and survival of our free society.

They understood that our republican form of government would not work unless the people were informed of government's activities by an independent and unrestrained press which fostered discussion and debate of public issues.

James Madison, in his opposition to the Sedition Act of 1789, which made publishing falsehoods about political leaders a crime, said the act "ought to produce universal alarm, because it is leveled against the right of freely examining public characters and measures, and of free communication among the people thereon, which has ever been justly deemed the only effectual guardian of every other right."

A free press serves a free people by providing them accurate and timely information, analysis and criticism that enables them to make intelligent and responsible decisions.

It functions as the eyes, ears and voice of the free people; it serves by providing access to news and information not readily available to the individual citizen. In serving the public, the press protects the people's First Amendment right to know the facts on public issues and to know how elected officials are dealing with those issues.

A free press also serves a free people by providing useful information to help them cope with complexities of modern living; to help them plan their daily lives; to advise, instruct, educate, challenge and entertain. It provides a free people a forum in its Letters To The Editor and opinion columns; a diversity of opinion on its OP-ED pages; a calendar of social and public events to attend—or not attend; a record of current events; a shopping and entertainment guide; and special activities as financial and vacation planning.

As a marketplace for ideas, as well as for commodities, a free press offers the free people it serves a diversity of information, opinion and advertisements to help them make the best choice—be it of an elected official or of a new car.

But, to properly carry out its Constitutional mandate, a free press must remain an economically strong and independent institution, free to conscientiously publish news, circulate advertising and express its views without government intervention or restraint. Our free-enterprise system provides us the opportunity for economic independence; our continued vigilance and dedication are necessary to protect and guard against government restrictions of this fundamental right of the American people—freedom of the press.

As we observe National Newspaper Week, let us all resolve to re-dedicate our efforts to meet the guarantees of a free press as provided in our Constitution—serving and protecting our rights and our security.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK October 5 - 11, 1986

It gives me great pleasure to extend greetings to the Newspaper Association Managers as you sponsor National Newspaper Week.

Since our nation's founding, freedom of the press has been a vital part of our heritage, reflecting the strong American belief that only when the people have access to the facts and a robust discussion of the issues are they able to participate fully in the democratic process. History has confirmed that an independent and responsible press is essential to the maintenance of a truly free society.

This year's National Newspaper Week theme, "A Free Press Serves a Free People," makes it clear that we all benefit from a free press. If the people are to decide what is in their best interest, they must have access to the truth and a wide range of unfettered analysis.

During National Newspaper Week, let us reflect together on the importance of our First Amendment guarantee of Freedom of the Press.

Nancy joins me in sending our best wishes for a successful week and for every happiness.

God bless you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us.

Learn - don't burn

In our society today, very few individuals appreciate the necessity of education in fire safety and fire safety inspections.

Fire safety education and safety inspections are necessary because the causes that create unsafe fire conditions are continually at work. The two main causes of unsafe conditions are environmental and human behavior.

Environmental causes, such as hazardous products and defects in buildings resulting from deterioration cause hazards to life and property when a fire occurs.

Human behavior is the source for creating many unsafe conditions. Many fire hazards can be identified as a result of human interaction - obstruction of exits, alarm systems inactive, improper storage, etc.

The list goes on and on. These are but just a few of the ways in which human behavior creates unsafe conditions. This problem can be reduced by implementing regular fire safety inspections, which can counteract the spread of unsafe conditions.

Education of the individual residents of Hancock County in regards to unsafe conditions, fire hazards and fire safety may be obtained simply by requesting this fire inspection from your local Fire Dept. or by contacting the Fire Marshall at 467-9226.

These inspections of family dwellings will be a search for unsafe conditions and will make non-binding fire safety recommendations. Also, homeowners will be advised on the advantages of performing operation E.D.I.T.H. (Exit Drills In The Home) on a regular basis with all members of their household.

Once again, I would like to emphasize the advantage of having Fire Safety Technicians assist you in evaluating fire safety in your home, so pick up your phone and call 467-9226.

House of Representatives

JACKSON—A joint legislative committee has agreed to look into current utilization of office space by state agencies in both state and privately owned buildings to try to determine if more efficient use can be made of taxpayers' dollars.

The six-member committee also voted to request detailed information from the state Bureau of Building, Grounds and Real Property Management on whether a new high-rise state office building in Jackson would result in a future savings of public funds.

William F. Campbell, a staff architect for the Bureau, said it has been estimated the suggested new building would, in effect, pay for itself within 12 to 15 years.

Representative James D. Nunnally of Ripley was elected chairman of the study committee as a September 25 organizational meeting at the State Capitol.

Senator Bob Montgomery of Canton was elected vice chairman. Other committee members are Representatives Ted Lambert of Monticello and Robert Clark of Ebenezer, and Senators Cecil Mills of Clara and Tommy Golliott of Biloxi.

"I believe something good for our people can come from this," Nunnally said following the meeting. The Committee tentatively set Oct. 17 for its next session.

The Committee was created in the 1986 legislative session to study availability of office space for agencies and look into the feasibility of building or acquiring necessary office space. The Committee was directed to make a report to the 1987 legislative session.

Members received a briefing on office space and buildings from Mike McGee, director of the Division of Real Property Management in the Bureau of Buildings, Grounds and Real Property Management.

McGee said state agencies are leasing about 1.7 million square feet in privately owned buildings throughout Mississippi and paying about $7.2 million in rent over a 12-month period.

In the Jackson area alone, McGee said state agencies are leasing more than 800,000 square feet from private owners and paying $4.8 million a year. This includes 300,000 square feet classified as office space at an annual cost of $4 million. The average cost currently paid by state agencies for office space in the Jackson area is $7.80 per square foot, McGee added.

At present, McGee said all state-owned buildings in the Capitol Complex in downtown Jackson are full except the Robert E. Lee Building now undergoing renovation and the Central High Legislative Services Building which he said would need renovation before it could be fully utilized.

Campbell said a new office building similar to the Walter Sillers Building could accommodate about 40 percent of the office space presently leased by state agencies in private buildings.

The Committee voted to request McGee and Campbell to submit more detailed information on alternative proposals to meet office space needs in Jackson, including specifics on a new building in the Capitol Complex; utilization of the Robert E. Lee Building and the old Central High School Building; and if public funds might be saved on office space in other areas of the state having a large concentration of state agencies.

In addition, at the suggestion of Representative Lambert, the Committee requested property management officials to prepare a list of any surplus property owned by the state to see if it might be better utilized or maybe sold if selling certain parcels would be in the best interest of the public.

Senator Montgomery said the study group would look at office space needs from both the long-term and short-range perspective.

Fire safety programs, inspections offered

The Waveland Fire Department and Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 are sponsoring a fire safety and prevention program at 7 p.m. Monday at the post home on Coleman Avenue.

The program is designed for the entire family and children are welcome, Hancock County Fire Marshall Jay Marsh said.

The program will include slide presentations and a film relating to this year's National Fire Prevention Week theme, "Learn Not to Burn."

In addition to fire safety programs, free inspections are being offered by local fire departments during October, which is Fire Prevention Month.

Inspections can be obtained by calling local fire departments or contacting Marsh at 467-9228 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The inspections will provide location of unsafe conditions and will include non-binding fire safety recommendations. Homeowners and their families will also be advised on the advantages of practicing fire exit drills on a regular basis.

In addition, the public is invited to visit local fire departments, according to Diamondhead Fire Chief Dennis Westbrook. Several departments are also planning to visit schools during Fire Prevention Week.

Waveland fire fighters set children's programs

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Fire Department is observing National Fire Prevention Week by providing fire prevention and safety programs to the public.

According to Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia, the department began its observation of Fire Prevention Week Friday with a program for students of St. Clare Elementary School in Waveland and has scheduled two additional programs specifically for children.

On Tuesday, Waveland firefighters will visit kindergarten classes at Waveland Elementary School.

Assisting the firefighters will be members of Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253's Ladies Auxiliary Unit, who will provide refreshments for the students.

Garcia said the visit will be highlighted by the first appearance of Smoky the Clown, who will instruct the children in fire safety.

A second tour of Fire Station No. 1 off Coleman Avenue has been scheduled Wednesday for St. Clare students. On Friday, the 40 St. Clare students who toured the station watched a fire safety film, saw firefighting equipment demonstrated and got a close look at one of the department's pumper trucks.

The department will also join with the VFW auxiliary to sponsor a fire prevention and safety poster contest Oct. 6-10 for Waveland Elementary and St. Clare students.

The posters will be picked up from the schools Oct. 13 and the prizes will be awarded Oct. 17.

Garcia said anyone in Waveland who would like to schedule a fire prevention program from Oct. 5 to Oct. 11 may call 467-2042 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

ETV special stresses importance of early childhood learning

Creating challenging and stimulating environments for learning—both in kindergarten and at home—is the message of Mississippi ETV's new special, "A Good Beginning Has No End."

The one-hour documentary will be broadcast at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 9, on the statewide network.

Hosted by Bob Keeshan, better known to many television viewers as "Captain Kangaroo," the program is targeted at parents, teachers and other caregivers of small children.

Keeshan points out that the early years are crucial for growth and development and that learning certain concepts during these early years affects the child's later mastery of math, science, reading and language.

Five important concepts that the child ideally should grasp by age five are classifying, number, space, sequencing (time) and ordering (comparing). The child should be over these five "hurdles" in order to successfully clear later hurdles in his on-going learning experience through childhood and adolescence.

"It doesn't happen all at once," says Keeshan in the program. "A child doesn't start learning the day he gets to kindergarten—he's been learning all along. Learning takes place gradually, like building a skyscraper, weaving a spider web or constructing a scaffold. All the pieces interconnect, building upward and outward."

Understanding these five concepts involves mental processes that make it possible for human beings to acquire, store and evaluate information. They are stepping stones in a child's learning process. Keeshan points out that kindergarten is a very important year for crossing these stepping stones and making sure stages are not skipped or partially achieved. The home comes in to play in this process because at this age, home is the most influential learning environment of all.

Undefeated Hawks rock St. Stanislaus 45-21, take fifth straight win

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The undefeated Hancock North Central Hawks continued their winning ways Friday night with their fifth regular season victory, stunning St. Stanislaus' Rock-a-Chaws, 45-21.

"It is great to be 5-0," said Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre.

Favre said Stanislaus had played a really good ballgame but "a little extra firepower" by the Hawks had gained the win.

"We were here to win but we knew it would be a tough game because of the rivalry," he added.

SSC Head Coach Vernon Powell said one problem with the Rocks game was the number of mistakes made.

"We gave up a lot of points on mistakes," he added.

Powell said he felt good about play by the offensive team but the defense stayed on the field too long," Powell said.

The Rocks won the toss but elected to kick and the Hawks started the game with excellent field position on the 40-yard line after a 37-yard return by halfback Charles Burton.

Gains by Burton, Donald Vince and Delano Lewis moved the Hawks down to the 23-yard line where the ball was lost on a fumble.

SSC began offensive play in the game with first and ten on their own 23-yard line.

Quarterback Shannon Garrett connected with Ya-Sin Shabazz for a nine-yard gain but the ball was moved back five yards on the next play for encroachment.

Jack Simpson added two but an incomplete pass on the next play forced the Rocks to pass.

The snap went over the punter's head and into the endzone. The Rocks recovered but Dewayne Acker was there to make the tackle at the one, setting up a first and goal for the Hawks.

HNC Quarterback Brett Favre handed off to Vince who took the ball into the endzone for the touchdown.

A two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Rocks came back and used less than a minute on the clock to move out ahead of Hancock.

Simpson received the ball for the Rocks on the 20 and ran it back to the 33-yard line.

On first down, Shabazz took the ball for a 67-yard touchdown jaunt. Rob Betcher added the extra point. Stanislaus lead 7-6.

A 32-yard gain by Vince on the second down of Hancock's next possession put the Hawks inside SSC territory.

Six more by Vince and a five-yard gain by Burton gave the Hawks first and ten on the 19-yard line. Lewis added one and then Favre ran it in on a keeper for the score.

The Hawks move ahead 12-7 but were again unable to add two points on the conversion.

SSC came back again and recaptured the lead from the Hawks when Shabazz connected with Freddy Wierstrom.

Offensive penalties cost the Rocks the extra point.

The Rocks led 13-12 with 10:25 left in the second quarter.

Burton returned the kick 17 yards and the Hawks began another scoring drive on their own 33-yard line.

A seven-yard gain by Burton and 34-yard scamper by Lewis put the Hawks on the SSC 26-yard line.

Vince added 11 in two runs and Favre rushed for 13 but the ball was moved back to the 23-yard line on a holding call.

Burton then scored on a 23-yard run.

The Hawks' third attempt for a two point conversion was blocked.

Larry Beech kicked the ball into the endzone and the Rocks began on the 20-yard line but fumbled on first down. Earl Brown made the recovery for the Hawks.

Vince gained nine yards to put the Hawks inside the 10-yard line and Brian Myers added five.

A penalty cost Hancock one yard and then a fumble covered by the Hawks backed them up another yard.

With second and four from the nine yard line, Burton added four and then took the ball in on the next play for his second touchdown of the night.

The Hawks were again unsuccessful in adding two points.

SSC was unable to gain a first down and punted to the Hawks.

An incomplete pass began the drive but 10 yards by Favre set the scene for a touchdown pass tipped by Rock players into the hands of Burton as time expired in the second quarter.

Favre tossed the ball to Vincent Cuevas in the endzone to add two points and the Hawks went to the locker room with a 32-13 halftime lead.

SSC moved for a first down and turned the ball over to Hancock on another fumble.

The Hawks took over on the Rock 44-yard line, and moved to the 13 on runs by Vince, Burton and Myers. Burton took it in from there for another six points to increase the Hawk lead to 38-13.

A couple of unsuccessful series by both teams used the remaining time in the third quarter.

The Hawks moved down to the one-yard line and a touchdown by Myers was called back due to a penalty against Hancock.

The ball was turned over on downs but SSC fumbled again and Defensive Tackle Mario Greco scooped up the ball and ran it back 30 yards to score.

The Rocks made the final score of the night on a first down touchdown pass from Shabazz to Wierstrom. The final score of the game was 45-21.

Brucellosis on decline in county, says Taylor

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Through improved management practices and educational programs the occurrence of brucellosis, a disease that affects both cattle and humans, is on the decline in Hancock County.

Hancock County Agent Lee Taylor said that while there have been several cases of brucellosis in recent years in the county, the number has been significantly reduced, primarily through the efforts of the Hancock County Cattlemen's Association.

"Hancock County is lucky to have such a large association and through educational programs at their meetings, cattlemen are becoming more aware of how to handle brucellosis," Taylor said.

At this time the cattlemen's association, with more than 100 members, is the largest in the state based on a per capita quota, Taylor noted.

The cattle industry in Hancock County is valued at nearly $800,000 a year, Taylor said.

Latest available state level data indicates only two known infected herds in Hancock County as of Aug. 1, according to State Veterinarian Harvey F. McCrory.

Taylor said the quarantine has since been lifted on both herds in Hancock County.

McCrory said while coastal counties consistently accounted for only a few infected herds, neighboring Pearl River County has five herds quarantined.

The reduction of the number of brucellosis cases throughout the state has enabled Mississippi cattlemen to sell cattle more freely. "Cattle buyers from several states previously would not buy cattle from Mississippi due to the high rate of disease," Taylor said.

He added Mississippi has moved from a "C" status to a "B" status by reducing the number of herds that are infected to below 300.

"Agricultural agencies are now directing their efforts at decreasing the number of infected herds even further, working toward an "A" status," Taylor said.

According to the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, if infection rates are not significantly reduced within two years, Mississippi along with Florida, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas faces severe restrictions on cattle movement.

More than 20 states presently allow only official brucellosis vaccinated cows and heifers to enter their borders and a number of states will not accept heifers from these six southern states unless they are restricted to feedlots.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious, bacterial disease that can affect both cattle and humans, Taylor said.

In humans, the disease can cause undulate fever, he added.

Humans can contract the disease by using bare hands to assist a cow during birth or by pricking themselves with a needle used in brucellosis vaccination. Taylor urges extreme caution in both of these situations.

While brucellosis infection in humans is usually not fatal, the disease can cause severe illness and sometimes lasting disability.

Basically in cattle the disease causes abortion, Taylor said.

Other effects are retained afterbirth, decreased milk production and delayed conception.

"Brucellosis is one of the most serious diseases of cattle, it spreads swiftly and is difficult to detect by the appearances of the cattle," McCrory said. "There is no known cure for the disease."

"Using good management practices, being aware of the disease and keeping heifers vaccinated is a cattleman's best defense," Taylor said.

He also urges anyone buying cattle through a private sale to have the cows tested prior to having them brought onto the buyer's property.

School bus, motorcycle in accident

By ELLIS CUBVAS

A motorcycle apparently side-swiped a Hancock County school bus Friday on Gini Road near Highway 604 in Pearlington.

Mrs. Carolyn W. Green, Rt. 2, Box 448, Bay St. Louis was driver of the bus, and Raymond J. Finch III, of Pearlington, was operator of the motorcycle, according to Hancock County Deputy Sheriff Leo Ladner.

Ladner reported Finch was taken by a motorist to an aunt's home, then by a private vehicle to Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis.

The deputy said Finch suffered bruises and abrasions to both arms, legs and his back and was treated and released.

The accident is still under investigation, Ladner added. Ladner was assisted by Mississippi State Troopers Fred Keel and Houston Dorr.

Mississippi livestock dealers agree to cease and desist order

WASHINGTON—Lee M. Johnson and Lewis T. McCoy, owners of Big Spring Cattle Co. at Picaune, have agreed to a cease and desist order to settle federal charges of doing business as livestock dealers without an adequate bond, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyard Administration, said they have since increased their bond from $50,000 to $100,000 as required by their volume of business.

Jones said Johnson and McCoy buy cattle at auction markets in the southern parts of Mississippi.

Alabama and Georgia.

In agreeing to the penalties, Johnson and McCoy neither admitted nor denied the federal administrative charges filed by USDA under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

PROFIT OUTLOOK DIM

The dry summer and continuing low crop prices will probably keep most farmers in Hancock County from realizing substantial profits on 1986 crops.

Earlier dry weather will keep yields low for many of the crops we produce, and market prices for these crops remain below profitable levels even if yields were above-average.

Even though U.S. supplies of most of the crops we produce are below year-ago levels, the supplies are still fairly large and will keep the pressure on prices. We can expect little, if any, improvement in prices as we move into peak harvest.

The outlook is a little better for farmers who do manage to produce extremely good yields. But for most, the combination of low yields and rock-bottom prices means another losing year in 1986.

WATCH FOR BUGS

Crickets, roaches and other insects may begin to wander into your home as the weather cools in the next few weeks.

Try to control these insects before they get into your home if possible. Spraying the outside base of your house with malathion, diazinon or Sevin will usually do the job.

Don't overeat. Using too much insecticide in and around the home isn't called for or recommended. Contact our office for more details.

OCTOBER IS ENERGY MONTH

If you ever have thoughts that the energy crisis is over, take a look at your monthly utility bill.

October has been declared American Energy Month to bring attention to the fact that we still need to use energy wisely to avoid unreasonable bills and assure plenty of energy for future use.

We may not cut our energy bills drastically, but most of us can save some by using common-sense practices. Our office has information on how you can save on energy expenses.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your legal rights.)

Q: Is a document that is not written by an attorney binding on the parties?

A: Yes. Any contract that is oral, or written, is binding upon the parties making the contract if it satisfies the legal requirements of contracts.

Such legal requirements can be whether there was satisfactory acceptance of an offer, whether there was consideration for the offer, whether the parties were of sound mind and of legal age, as well as many other requirements. All contracts should be considered seriously before you enter them.

Q: How old must you be to make a will?

A: Every person over the age of 18 years who is of sound mind may, by a Last Will and Testament, dispose of his/her estate, including both real property and personal effects.

For further information on wills, contact the Mississippi State Bar Association and request the free pamphlet on "Why You Need a Will."

Timberline

By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

Commission

Last Week we dealt with managing pine stands to make them less attractive to Southern Pine Beetles. In this third of a series of four columns we'll discuss treating active infestations of the beetles.

The recommended treatment is to salvage both the infested trees and a strip of trees 40-70 feet in front of the direction of spread. This may need to be increased to 100 feet or slightly more for large rapidly expanding spots. You can tell the direction the beetles are moving. Just look for the most recently killed trees.

If you can't salvage the timber, just cut the infested trees and those in the buffer zone and leave them in the woods.

Some landowners have expressed doubt about the effectiveness of this procedure, and some question the wisdom of selling infested trees, fearing that transporting the logs will cause the insects to spread.

These doubts and fears are unfounded. Much scientific research has been done to develop control methods, and this has proven to be the best.

Beetles are much more likely to spread from untreated spots than from salvaged trees.

We can use the insects habits against them. Let's summarize some of what we've learned in previous articles:

Southern Pine Beetles are always present. But they can do damage only when their population is large enough to enable them to "mass attack" trees. A few beetles can't kill a tree.

They communicate by smell. Once a few females successfully enter a tree, they produce an odor which draws nearby beetles to it.

The beetles die quickly when exposed to intense summer heat, and they can't travel long distances. Therefore, they move from one tree to another nearby tree.

If there are no pines within a few feet of an attacked tree, many of the insects will die trying to travel to a new food supply. Those that survive will be so dispersed that they cannot successfully mount a mass attack on other trees.

There are numerous predators of Southern Pine Beetles. Many insect predators breed in fallen trees and standing dead trees make good dens for birds, especially woodpeckers, which feed heavily on Southern Pine Beetles.

So, when we cut infested trees — plus that all-important buffer strip — we accomplish several things:

We kill developing beetles. They must have the moist inner bark of live, standing trees.

We eliminate the attractant source. Once the trees are on the ground, they are no longer suitable for colonization by the beetles. The beetles do not attack them and release attractant chemicals.

By cutting the trees in the buffer zone we eliminate a nearby food source. We force the insects out into the open, where exposure to the elements, especially heat, can kill them.

The trunks of unsalvageable trees left behind, are ideal breeding places for insects that eat the Southern Pine Beetles.

Here are some common mistakes people make when attempting to treat beetle spots:

Cutting the dead trees first. Landowners often start salvaging by cutting the oldest dead trees first, which the beetles have already abandoned. Meanwhile, the insects are attacking 15 to 20 new trees each day!

First, prevent the insects spread by cutting the buffer zone, and newly infested trees. It's best not to cut all of the old dead trees. Leave some snags standing for the woodpeckers.

Failure to cut a buffer strip. Many people are reluctant to cut these trees because they are often considered beetle-damaged and will probably bring a reduced price.

Failure to treat unmerchantable spots. The spots may be unmerchantable automatically obtain the address of a 911 caller through computer equipment, Boudin added.

Boudin had told the supervisors he believed that Hancock County had authorized for a 911 referendum through a bill passed for Jackson County.

State representative Walter James Phillips said Friday that Hancock County would have been able to have a 911 referendum had a general 911 bill introduced during the 1986 legislative session not died.

Phillips said Hancock County was not named in any of the several local and private bills that authorized 911 referendums in other counties.

The representative said he has already contacted the legislative draftsman for the house and is preparing two 911 bills for next year.

One bill is general legislation that would allow any county in the state to have a 911 referendum. The other bill is a local and private bill for Hancock County that will be used as a standby if the general legislation fails, Phillips said.

Either of those bills could provide for a special election in August 1987 or could add a referendum to that year's general election.

Kellar said he plans to discuss a request for a bill for next year with the rest of the board because he feels a countywide emergency number would be a valuable service.

"I think it would be a real fine thing to have if we could do it and if the people would vote for it," the board president said.

Jail break.....

Mayne was involved in the break last week and turned himself in the next morning.

At the time of the break there were 41 inmates in the facility, Seay said.

A search continues for the three still at large.

Hancock County sheriff's officers were joined by Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen in addition to receiving assistance from Mississippi State Troopers.

A steel plate was welded into place over the area where the bars were cut through Friday night.

Vegas-Reynolds

VIRGINIA LYNN VEGAS

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leon Vegas of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lynn Vegas, to Mr. Robert John Reynolds, son of Mr. George Irving Reynolds Jr. of Cooperstown, N.Y. and the late Mrs. Virginia McIntosh Reynolds. The wedding will be solemnized on October 18 at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Vegas was graduated coaledictorian from Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian in 1979. She received a bachelor's degree in business administration and a master's of business administration in finance from Millsaps College in Jackson. She was a member of Kappa Delta Social Sorority and the Millsaps varsity tennis team.

Miss Vegas is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Elsie Peterson Wahl of Jacoma, Wash. and the late Mr. Arvid Alexander Peterson, and Mrs. Paul Leon Vegas of Nine Mile Point, La. and the late Mr. Vegas.

Mr. Reynolds was graduated from Siena College in Loudonville, N.Y. where he received a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy. He is vice president of Mid-Hudson Cablevision in Catskill, N.Y.

Mr. Reynolds is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McIntosh of Oneonta, N.Y. and the late Mr. and Mrs. George Irving Reynolds, also of Oneonta.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Kinderhook, N.Y.

Little Theatre seeking Hancock artists

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is seeking Hancock County artists and craftsmen to participate in its second annual "Creating Christmas" show scheduled for Nov. 22 and 23.

This annual event celebrating the work of local artist and craftsmen will be staged at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

"Twenty-seven exhibitors in the 1985 show were from Hancock County and we expect to exceed that number of this year's event," said Mrs. Becky Rotundo of Bay St. Louis, event chairman.

"We offer a unique arena for exhibiting the works of local artists, a pleasant holiday environment, and enjoy sharing our finds and interesting stories that lead to their creations," Rotundo added.

According to Mrs. Michael Cuevas, theatre president, "The theatre is the major cultural asset of this city and "Creating Christmas" is only one of the ways we try to promote not only local artists, but our city as well."

"Out-of-town visitors leave the theatre from this event anxious to come back to other events in and around the area, and we make it our business to be informed and to recommend the coming events," Cuevas continued.

Proceeds from the event are used in maintenance and continued restoration of the playhouse.

Funds from the 1985 event were used to re-decorate the lobby, rest rooms, and backstage dressing rooms.

Local artists interested in participating in "Creating Christmas" may call Rotundo at 467-8371.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

Blue Jeans Garden Club

Members of the Blue Jeans Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Goodloe, Clermont Harbor, for the Sept. 18 meeting of the group.

Preceding the regular afternoon business meeting, president Jennie Ortis asked ladies to say a silent prayer for recently deceased member Mrs. Eva Shea.

The meeting was opened with Mrs. A. M. Thomas reading a lovely and delightful poem "Sunshine and Music."

Mrs. Joseph Roppolo, program chairlady, presented a program on the planting, feeding and care of a variety of bulbs "How to Froce Hardy Bulbs."

Following a brief business session plants and arrangements were judged with winners in the various categories:

Cultivated - Mrs. J. C. Goodloe
Potted - Mrs. Ortis
Dried - Mrs. Thomas
Wild - Mrs. Frank Klein Jr.
Miniature - Mrs. Talmadge Conway
Horticulture - a tie - Mrs. Clyde Ladner and Mrs. George Heitzmann.
Co-hostesses with Mrs. Goodloe were Mrs. Dave Caillier and Mrs. Dorothy Bessey.

Mrs. Bessey won the door prize.
Next meeting will be Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Roppolo, Waveland.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club met Sept. 24 at the Community Center in Diamondhead. President Jean Keen introduced eight guests and four new members. The 1986-87 yearbooks and the budget were distributed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Finley will host a covered dish picnic-supper for club members and their husbands on Oct. 9 at 6 p.m.

The flower show will be held at the Hancock County Fair Nov. 5-9. The Bay-Waveland Garden Club and the Diamondhead Garden Club are combining their efforts and talents for this event. The public is invited to participate, provided they follow the flower show schedule.

The club has been asked by the Hancock General Medical Center to help with beautifying certain areas of the grounds of the new building: Mrs. William Neff is in charge of the planning for the club and reported on the progress made to date.

Mrs. James Hobbs said that the Atrium adjoining the Community Center, one of the club's beautification projects, was nearly completed.

The home of Mrs. Sam Lamendola was chosen as September Garden of the Month and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hickman received the plaque of Favorite Golf Course Garden.

Mrs. Jerry Garberg was appointed photography chairman.

Mrs. Linda Wallace, ways and means chairman, announced that she had bulbs and 1987 "Visions of Beauty" calendars for sale.

Mrs. H. P. Bustetter, awards chairman, said that the following had been won at the recently attended Spanish Trail District meeting: certificate showing the Diamondhead Garden Club is a High Honor Roll Club; certificate showing the Diamondhead Junior Garden Club is an Honor Roll Club; certificate of appreciation for full membership participation in the state headquarters fund.

Also, certificate of merit for sponsoring a child to Youth Nature Camp certificate of merit for membership extension, and an award from the Deep South Region, "Adopt-A-Park," for the Atrium at Diamondhead.

A report was given by Mrs. Clarence A. Evans, energy awareness chairman, on a recently attended seminar on hazardous wastes sponsored by the Garden Clubs of Mississippi Inc. and the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources.

Members were reminded of the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs meeting in Pascagoula on Oct. 3; Landscape Design School in Starkville on Nov. 15, and the Diamondhead Craft Show at Diamondhead Saturday, Sept. 27. Mrs. George Kolasch said that the area designated as the garden club's library in the Community Center was ready and the members could withdraw books when they chose.

Mrs. Jerry Reshew said the name tags would be ready for members at the October meeting.

Workshop chairman, Mrs. Jan Brameyer, said flower design workshops will be held Wednesday, Oct. 8 and Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the home of Mrs. Hilaire Ogden.

The program was given by Mrs. John Newkirk, nationally accredited flower show judge, who gave a very educational program on "Flower Show Procedure."

La Society de Femme

The ladies of La Society de Femme, Cabane Locale 432, Hancock-Pearl River, held its regular monthly meeting at Waveland American Legion Post 77 on Monday Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

La Presidente Mattie North opened the meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Preamble to the Constitution of La Societe de Femme. The opening prayer was offered by La Aumonier Elenor Marsh.

During the meeting the ladies discussed the upcoming annual picnic which will be held in conjunction with the men of Voiture 432 Forty & Eight on Nov. 8.

All ladies were asked to bring a covered dish for the picnic. Additional information will be presented at the next meeting in October.

Plans were also discussed about the assistance the ladies will provide the men of Voiture 432 with the statewide wreck and annual state promenade to be held in March 1987.

The ladies of Cabane Locale 432 have been placed in charge of two committees for this function; door prizes and ladies' entertainment.

Joan Wilkinson reminded everyone that the annual dues are now payable and may be mailed to her at Rt. 4 Box 200, Bay St. Louis.

It was also reported that tickets are now on sale for the raffle of the bed cover. The meeting closed at 8:45 p.m.

The next meeting of La Societe de Femme, Cabane Locale 432 will be held in the Bay St. Louis Post 139 American Legion at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 27.

Alliance Against Drugs hearing slated Oct. 15

Biloxi will be the site for the eighth of nine public hearings by Governor Allain and his task force organizing the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs. The hearing will be held Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 10 a.m. at the Harrison County Courthouse.

Governor Allain invites everyone presently involved in an anti-drug program to present testimony at the hearing, outlining their program.

"We are trying to identify as many programs as we can, so we can put them all together into one big anti-drug program. Only through a unified attack can we win the war on drugs," Governor Allain said.

Governor Allain invites participation in the Biloxi hearing from citizens from Pearl River, Stone, George, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

Anyone wishing to present testimony but unable to attend the hearing can mail information about their anti-drug program to: James Dixon, Administrative Assistant, Office of the Governor, Post Office Box 139, Jackson, MS 39205.

THE SIN AND RESTORATION OF SIMON PETER (No. 2)

The story of Peter's life grips our attention. This is true because he was so human - so much like ourselves. His impulsive nature carried him to the lowest depth and the highest heights.

The passage to be discussed presents him in sin and humiliation. This was perhaps the darkest hour of his life. Concerning this crucial experience, we will make three observations.

Peter went downward in our first observation. A downward trend precedes every fall. The fall itself may be sudden, but the movement toward the cliff is a gradual process.

Before the fall Peter took four downward steps. (1) Self-confidence. Luke tells us, "And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat; but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with Thee, both into prison and death." (Luke 22:31-33)

Matthew recorded the foretelling of Peter's denial: "Then saith Jesus unto them, all ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad. But after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee. Peter answered and said unto him, Though all men shall be offended because of Thee, yet will I never be offended. Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. Peter said unto him, Though I should die with Thee, yet will I not deny thee, likewise also said all the disciples." (Matthew 26:31-35)

Peter felt very confident of his willingness to defend his Lord with physical force.

The second downward step was rashness. Judas led the band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees. "Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malcus."

Then said Jesus unto Peter, put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?" (John 18:10-11)

Misguided zeal is often a forerunner of a cowardly word or deed.

Tardiness was the third downward trend of Peter. He followed from afar. The disciple who allows too much distance to exist between himself and the Lord will stumble. Some think it isn't safe to follow Christ in nearness, so they follow from afar.

Evil associates is the fourth downward trend. Peter went into the Place of the high priest. "And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals; for it was cold: and they warmed themselves; and Peter stood with them, and warmed himself." (John 18:18). "Be not deceived: Evil companionships corrupt good morals." (1 Corinthians 15:33)

AGRICULTURE AFTER EVACUATION

President Franklin Roosevelt's timely words during World War II, concerning fear itself being one of the worst things to fear during those uncertain days, have a way of becoming applicable time and again.

The latest instance surrounds the recent train derailment in Covington county with a chlorine gas leakage posing a real threat to the surroundings for a few days.

The proper emergency officials quickly and effectively roadblocked the zone near the leaking chlorine gas and evacuated nearby residents to make sure there would be no human casualties from the accident, and there were none.

In due time livestock was moved from pastures in the vicinity and there were no casualties to farm animals either.

The main damage from the chlorine gas spill was to vegetation in the vicinity. And fortunately the area was not a highly intensive agricultural area, but was mostly surrounded by woodlands.

Wildlife victims of the accident included a deer, otter, beavers, and squirrels. Two beagle hounds were among the overall victims. Grass and some tree foliage near the wreck scene was at first bleached by the strong gaseous vapors and then turned brown.

Some trees within certain species that were defoliated may not recover and may die. Others will merely grow new leaves and be relatively little-affected by the incident.

But fear of the unknown already has impacted on agriculture to the area, according to county agricultural agent Fred Baker.

Despite public statements by Baker shortly after an inventory of so-called 'burn' damage to some nearby garden crops, it was pointed out that the garden vegetables were perfectly safe to eat, after usual washing.

It is ironic though that produce merchants in the area have found some of the public afraid to buy certain commodities from Covington county producers or merchants.

To allay these fears, last week numerous samples of vegetable crops, hay, soil, and water were analyzed by the state chemical lab at Starkville with the result that less chlorides were found in the tissue samples than are applied at the table with a few grains of salt from the salt shaker.

The chlorine gas vanished in the air with no residual effects, Baker said, and there is no need to be wary of food products from that area.

Even so, one produce operator in the county took a loss on a shipment of peaches that were consigned to him after the train derailment. They had arrived in the county long after the chlorine leakage occurred. Yet, many customers were afraid to buy, and the dealer took a loss on the consignment.

Also in Covington county last week, one grower of field peas which sells the popular southern vegetable crop to local consumers found customers afraid to buy them as they usually have done. So his late pea crop is wasting in the field.

That is the problem agriculture faces with chemical scares. Years ago a scare was begun with news coverage concerning a small amount of chemical residue found in cranberries in a local situation that proved to be of virtually no consequence.

Then a few years ago several people became ill in California after eating watermelons traced to only two growers in that state who had incorrectly applied farm production chemicals. A scare quickly was on that sharply curtailed the market for watermelons even here in Mississippi.

A lot of farmers over this land today find agreement with President Roosevelt's warnings concerning fear nearly half a century ago.

If you work in an office, chances are you'll spend at least 26 years of your life sitting down.

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer Management Center

Protection for you the consumer...

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) has a booklet to assist with banking complaints. The booklet is called "Consumer Information." It gives directions for complaints and inquiries and highlights consumer protection laws enforced by FDIC.

In addition, FDIC operates a toll-free Consumer Hotline for your assistance. The hotline number is 800-424-5488 and is available Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Check hospital bills...

Do you check bills for services purchased to be sure you got what you're charged for? If you have to be in the hospital, it's smart to check those bills also.

A company which audits bills for insurance companies found errors in most of those bills including listing services twice, charging for services not performed, and incorrect length of stays.

One person got a bill for anesthesia after her operation was canceled. Whether you or your insurance company pays the bill, checking and reducing errors can help keep health care costs down.

Insuring safe deposit box...

A bank safe deposit box is probably the safest place to store such valuables as stock certificates and jewelry. But even there, loss from fire and theft are possible, even if not likely.

Banks are not liable for losses of such personal treasures unless it can be proved they were negligent.

Homeowners policies provide only limited coverage for coins, cash, jewelry and similar items stored in safe deposit box. Owners should check with their insurance agent to see just what coverage they do have and see if additional "floater" coverage is needed.

It's also wise to keep an inventory of items stored in the box in a safe place at home, just as you keep an inventory of items at home stored in the safe deposit box.

Employ the Handicapped Week set for Oct. 5-11

The advantages of hiring workers with disabilities will be stressed during Mississippi's Oct. 5-11 observance of National Employ the Handicapped Week.

Following the theme, "People at Work," every effort will be made, through the news media and direct contact, "to help employers realize what important contributions persons with disabilities can make to Mississippi business and industry," said Jan Larsen, director of the Office of Handicapped Services, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

"Employ the Handicapped Week gives us the opportunity to highlight some of the positive steps employers have taken in hiring people with disabilities, and it provides us with a chance to recognize the achievements of these individuals."

"As more and more persons with disabilities enter the mainstream of Mississippi life," Mrs. Larsen noted, "employers are finding that, in most situations, their abilities far outweigh their disabilities. As a group, persons with disabilities have one of the most credible work records of any segment of the labor force and one of the lowest absenteeism rates. We, of the Office of Handicapped Services, hope all employers will seriously consider qualified workers with disabilities when additional personnel are needed."

"Each year, we see new strides in technology, education, training and employment that result in greater acceptance and public awareness of individuals with disabilities," she said. "We must see that these efforts continue."

National Employ the Handicapped Week, sponsored by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, was created by a joint resolution of Congress in 1945 and has been observed the first full week of October every year since.

Further information on hiring persons with disabilities may be obtained from the Office of Handicapped Services, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, 301 W. Pearl St., Jackson 39203, telephone 949-2012, or the Office of the Commissioner, Department of Rehabilitation Services, P.O. Box 22806, Jackson 39225, telephone 354-6100.

Quit smoking.
